Product Description

The ABUS Titalium 54TI Series Long Shackle Padlock represents a new generation of lightweight yet secure padlocks. Constructed with a solid TITALIUM™ special aluminium alloy body, it offers reliable security with significantly reduced weight compared to traditional brass padlocks. This makes it an ideal choice for securing items of lower value or in areas with a low risk of theft, such as lockers, toolboxes, bags, and cash boxes.

Equipped with a hardened steel shackle and a double-bolted locking mechanism, the 54TI series provides robust resistance against physical attacks. The extended long shackle offers a generous 63mm vertical clearance, providing the flexibility needed to secure items in awkward or hard-to-reach locations.

Brand Profile

Abus

ABUS (short for August Bremicker Söhne) is a German, family-owned security company best known for making locks and "preventative" security products—the stuff designed to stop problems before they happen. The company was founded in 1924, when August Bremicker and his sons started making padlocks in a cellar forge in Volmarstein (North Rhine-Westphalia). One of the earliest products was a padlock they called "Iron Rock," and the business expanded from there into a broad security portfolio.

Today, ABUS's headquarters are in Wetter (Ruhr), Germany, and the company manufactures across multiple German and international sites (with major German production called out in places like Rehe).

ABUS operates as a group with well-known consumer lines spanning padlocks and door/window security, alarm systems and video surveillance, and also bike security—notably bike locks and bike helmets (a big reason you'll see the brand everywhere from hardware stores to cycling shops).

Brand-wise, ABUS leans hard into the "German engineering, don't mess about" identity: practical, durability-obsessed, and aimed at homes, businesses, and people trying to stop their stuff being yeeted into the void by opportunistic goblins.
