Product Description

The Asec Budget Lock Angled Plate is a robust and reliable strike plate designed specifically for use with the Asec range of budget locks. Ideal for low-security applications such as cupboards, cabinets, and utility access panels, this angled plate provides a secure latching point to keep doors firmly closed.

Manufactured from solid metal with a classic brass finish, it offers both durability and a clean, professional look. The plate is designed for straightforward installation, featuring pre-drilled fixing holes with 21mm screw centres. Whether you are fitting a new budget lock or replacing an existing strike plate, this compact accessory ensures a precise fit and smooth operation.

Brand Profile

Asec

ASEC is a trade-focused security hardware brand built around the “everyday kit” locksmiths and installers reach for, with a big emphasis on breadth, availability, and value rather than boutique-only spec pieces. The brand was established in 2003 and was created specifically to support independent retailers and security professionals with products that “would never become available through the large multiple retailers.”

Where ASEC gets especially interesting (and why it tends to become a “default stock brand”) is the scale of the range:

- ASEC positions itself as having a portfolio of 2,000+ individual products, described as one of the largest ranges under a single security brand name in the industry.
- Coverage is intentionally broad across the core trade categories: Access Control, Architectural Hardware, Key Cutting, Locking Products, UPVC, Tools & Accessories.

ASEC is exclusive to Aldridge Security (whom we distribute) in the UK trade ecosystem (Aldridge explicitly calls itself the exclusive distributor of ASEC Security Products worldwide). That exclusivity is a big part of the brand’s identity: it keeps the range aimed at the trade channel rather than getting diluted into mass retail.
