Product Description

The Asec Mortice Release Sash Faceplate is a high-quality, reversible strike plate designed to easily convert an Asec electric strike into a mortice strike. This conversion plate is ideal for use with a wide range of mortice sashlocks, allowing you to seamlessly integrate the lock's latch with the electric release mechanism.

By replacing the standard faceplate supplied with low-to-medium use mortice electric strike plates, this faceplate enables the striker to work alongside compatible mortice sashlocks. This provides a practical solution for securing doors during and outside of normal hours of operation.

This faceplate is available in multiple finishes, weights, and manufacturer references to suit your installation requirements. Please select your preferred options below.

Brand Profile

Asec

ASEC is a trade-focused security hardware brand built around the “everyday kit” locksmiths and installers reach for, with a big emphasis on breadth, availability, and value rather than boutique-only spec pieces. The brand was established in 2003 and was created specifically to support independent retailers and security professionals with products that “would never become available through the large multiple retailers.”

Where ASEC gets especially interesting (and why it tends to become a “default stock brand”) is the scale of the range:

- ASEC positions itself as having a portfolio of 2,000+ individual products, described as one of the largest ranges under a single security brand name in the industry.
- Coverage is intentionally broad across the core trade categories: Access Control, Architectural Hardware, Key Cutting, Locking Products, UPVC, Tools & Accessories.

ASEC is exclusive to Aldridge Security (whom we distribute) in the UK trade ecosystem (Aldridge explicitly calls itself the exclusive distributor of ASEC Security Products worldwide). That exclusivity is a big part of the brand’s identity: it keeps the range aimed at the trade channel rather than getting diluted into mass retail.
