Product Description

The Asec "Push Bar To Open" photoluminescent sign is an essential safety and evacuation marker designed to clearly identify emergency exit doors equipped with panic hardware. In the event of an emergency, power failures, thick smoke, or poor lighting can significantly impair visibility. This photoluminescent (glow-in-the-dark) sign absorbs ambient light and remains highly visible even in complete darkness, helping occupants safely locate and operate the exit door.

Manufactured from durable, semi-rigid PVC, the sign features a self-adhesive backing for quick and straightforward installation. It can be easily mounted directly onto or adjacent to the door's push bar mechanism, ensuring clear guidance for occupants during an evacuation.

Brand Profile

Asec

ASEC is a trade-focused security hardware brand built around the “everyday kit” locksmiths and installers reach for, with a big emphasis on breadth, availability, and value rather than boutique-only spec pieces. The brand was established in 2003 and was created specifically to support independent retailers and security professionals with products that “would never become available through the large multiple retailers.”

Where ASEC gets especially interesting (and why it tends to become a “default stock brand”) is the scale of the range:

- ASEC positions itself as having a portfolio of 2,000+ individual products, described as one of the largest ranges under a single security brand name in the industry.
- Coverage is intentionally broad across the core trade categories: Access Control, Architectural Hardware, Key Cutting, Locking Products, UPVC, Tools & Accessories.

ASEC is exclusive to Aldridge Security (whom we distribute) in the UK trade ecosystem (Aldridge explicitly calls itself the exclusive distributor of ASEC Security Products worldwide). That exclusivity is a big part of the brand’s identity: it keeps the range aimed at the trade channel rather than getting diluted into mass retail.
