Product Description

The Asec Vital Lockable Cable Window Restrictor is a highly effective and easy-to-install safety device designed to limit how far a window can open. Ideal for both domestic and commercial properties, it provides essential injury prevention by restricting window openings to help prevent accidental falls, making it a perfect addition to homes, schools, offices, and care environments.

Constructed for durability and reliability, the restrictor features robust metal end-fixtures connected by a strong steel cable. The 3mm diameter steel cable is coated in a clean white plastic sleeve, offering both weather resistance and an unobtrusive appearance that blends seamlessly with white uPVC or painted window frames.

This lockable restrictor is supplied complete with four fixing screws and a single key, allowing the cable to be unlocked and released when full window access is required for cleaning or ventilation. It is keyed to differ, ensuring independent security for individual windows.
