Product Description

The Eclipse RB69840P Padlock Hasp is a heavy-duty, secure locking solution designed to offer robust protection for gates, sheds, and doors. Specifically engineered to suit Discus-style padlocks, its folded design helps hold the padlock securely in place to protect against twist attacks, though it remains fully compatible with other padlock designs.

Constructed from hardened steel with a bright zinc-plated finish, this hasp is highly weather-resistant and built to withstand harsh outdoor conditions. It can be bolted through timber doors up to 44mm thick using the supplied secure coach bolts and backing plates, or alternatively welded directly onto steel doors and gates for maximum security.

With its compact and discrete profile when fitted, the Eclipse RB69840P provides an easy-to-install, high-security barrier. It accommodates padlocks with a shackle diameter of up to 12mm and body thicknesses up to 30mm.

Brand Profile

Aldridge

Aldridge Security is a private, family-owned, trade-only security wholesaler and one of the biggest names in UK & Ireland distribution for locksmiths and security installers. They position themselves as the largest trade-only security wholesaler in the UK & Ireland, built around a simple promise: right product, right price, on time - and they've deliberately stuck to the independent trade rather than supplying DIY superstores.

Based in Birmingham, the company has a long operating history: the Aldridge Security Limited entity was incorporated in January 1965, while Aldridge itself markets 75+ years of industry experience as a wholesaler.

In practical terms, Aldridge is a "one-stop trade cupboard" for security: they advertise tens of thousands of products in stock, live stock/price info, and same-day despatch, covering areas like access control, locking, ironmongery/hardware, locksmith tools and accessories, key cutting, UPVC, and more (including their own-brand ASEC range).
