Product Description

The Frank Allart 5640 Lever Action Flush Bolt is a premium architectural hardware solution designed for edge or face fitting into the first closing leaf of a double door set. Crafted by the renowned British manufacturer Frank Allart, this flush bolt combines traditional craftsmanship with reliable modern performance.

With a slim 19mm width and a length of 15.2cm (152mm), this model is ideal for installations where space is at a premium. It features a high-quality coil springing mechanism that ensures a smooth, positive lever action every time. The bolt has an 11mm diameter shoot and offers a secure 16mm length of throw, providing robust stability for double doors. Finished in a sleek satin chrome plating, it delivers a clean, contemporary aesthetic that complements a wide range of interior decors.

Brand Profile

Frank Allart

Frank Allart (Frank Allart & Company Ltd) is a heritage British manufacturer of fine architectural hardware—the posh end of door, window and cabinet furniture where the finish quality and the "feel" in-hand actually matter. The business began in 1914, when George Allart started the company from a small workshop in Birmingham, and it has grown into a globally recognised name for traditionally crafted and design-led ironmongery.

Frank Allart is strongly associated with British-made brassware and decorative hardware, offering extensive ranges of door knobs and levers, pull handles, cabinet knobs and pulls, flush pulls, bolts, knockers, stops, and related fittings across a wide spread of styles and finishes.

On the corporate/history side, the company notes that after 62 years in Allart family ownership it became part of the Armac Brassfounders Group, with investment following to support the business and workforce.
