Product Description

The ABUS 147TSA Series Combination Luggage Padlock is an essential security accessory for international travellers, particularly those visiting the USA. Conforming to Transportation Security Administration (TSA) requirements, this lock allows airport security personnel to open, inspect, and relock your baggage using a master key without causing any damage to the lock or your suitcase.

Designed with a lightweight plastic body and a 3mm steel shackle, this padlock offers reliable protection for suitcases, holdalls, and travel bags without adding unnecessary bulk. It features a user-resettable 3-digit combination code, eliminating the need to carry keys. A standout feature is the integrated red indicator at the shackle, which visibly signals if the lock has been opened by TSA agents during transit. This indicator can be easily reset by opening the lock and rotating the shackle 360 degrees.

Brand Profile

Abus

Security Tech Germany

ABUS (short for August Bremicker Söhne) is a German, family-owned security company best known for making locks and “preventative” security products—the stuff designed to stop problems before they happen. The company was founded in 1924, when August Bremicker and his sons started making padlocks in a cellar forge in Volmarstein (North Rhine-Westphalia). One of the earliest products was a padlock they called “Iron Rock,” and the business expanded from there into a broad security portfolio.

Today, ABUS’s headquarters are in Wetter (Ruhr), Germany, and the company manufactures across multiple German and international sites (with major German production called out in places like Rehe).

ABUS operates as a group with well-known consumer lines spanning padlocks and door/window security, alarm systems and video surveillance, and also bike security—notably bike locks and bike helmets (a big reason you’ll see the brand everywhere from hardware stores to cycling shops).

Brand-wise, ABUS leans hard into the “German engineering, don’t mess about” identity: practical, durability-obsessed, and aimed at homes, businesses, and people trying to stop their stuff being yeeted into the void by opportunistic goblins.
